

Study Days Programme 2017

Palliative and End of Life Care and Bereavement Support

Caring for people approaching the end of life can be challenging - why not consider enhancing your knowledge, skills and confidence by attending one of our study days? They are open to any professional interested in learning about Palliative and End of Life Care and Bereavement. If there is not a study day to meet your organisation's needs then why not consider our bespoke Palliative and End of Life Care training, which is tailored to suit your individual needs. We also provide team building days and mandatory training.

"I have attended lots of courses since working for . This has been one of the most valuable for me. The topics have been extremely thought provoking and I have learnt a lot of skills to take back with me"

"Excellent study day. All 3 facilitators were exceptional."

"Excellent course, good deliveries, content and time for reflection and analysis. Very impressed with the ethos and culture of St Luke's Hospice"

"Really good mix of laughter and seriousness especially as a difficult subject. Especially like role plays and videos – visual better than words for me."

"By talking with different colleagues about various experiences it enhances the overall learning experience"
